This document is intended to provide details of the main policy of Carrigaline Educate Together National School (CETNS) in relation to behaviour. It is intended to help the school community, including staff, parents, guardians and other relevant parties, understand the environment and approach of the school. This document is regularly reviewed. All feedback is encouraged and welcome.

Code of Behaviour Policy

Introductory Statement

This policy was formulated in response to the need for a policy in relation to behaviour in line with the overall ethos of the school. The review of the policy took place in October 2013 and again in October 2015.

Rationale

It is necessary to have a policy on Code of Behaviour:

- It was an area of concern as identified by the school community
- To ensure an orderly climate for learning in the school
- It is a requirement under the Education Welfare Act, 2000, Section 23 (1) which refers to the obligation on schools to prepare a code of behaviour in respect of the students registered at the school. It details in Section 23(2), that the code of behaviour shall specify:
  - A. The standards of behaviour that shall be observed by each student attending the school;
  - B. The measures that shall be taken when a student fails or refuses to observe those standards;
  - C. The procedures to be followed before a student may be suspended or expelled from the school concerned;
  - D. The grounds for removing a suspension imposed in relation to a student; and
  - E. The procedures to be followed in relation to a child's absence from school

Relationship to the characteristic ethos of the school

The Code of Behaviour supports the ethos of Carrigaline Educate Together National School.

Carrigaline Educate Together N.S. is one of a number of multi-denominational schools throughout the country. The representative organisation for these schools is 'Educate Together'.

Educate Together aims to meet a growing need in Irish society for schools that recognise the developing diversity of Irish life and the modern need for democratic management structures. In particular, Educate Together guarantees children and parents of all faiths and none equal respect in the operation and governing of education.

The schools operated by the member associations of Educate Together are fully recognised by the Irish Department of Education and Science and work under the same regulations and funding structures as other national schools. However, they have a distinct ethos or governing spirit. This has been defined in the following terms:

- Equality based i.e. all children having equal rights of access to the school, and children of all social, cultural and religious backgrounds being equally respected
- Co-educational and committed to encouraging all children to explore their full range of abilities and opportunities,
- Child centred in their approach to education
- Democratically run with active participation by parents in the daily life of the school, whilst positively affirming the professional role of the teachers (Source: Educate Together Charter)

Whilst the concepts of child-centredness and co-educationalism are now widely accepted in Irish primary education, what distinguishes the Educate Together schools is their hard work in developing a culturally inclusive and democratic ethos. This has pioneered unique approaches to inclusion of minority opinions and faiths in the Irish context.

The schools have developed education programmes which open the eyes of children to the naturally positive contribution that social, religious and cultural diversity and difference of viewpoint and opinion make to society.

The other characteristic feature of these schools is that they are democratically organised and governed. This maximises the potential for building a genuine partnership between the professional, objective role of the teacher and the necessarily personal involvement of the parent in contributing to their children's education.

Carrigaline Educate Together N.S. makes the distinction between denominational education and moral/religious education. The ethical curriculum followed by the school is called the Learn Together Curriculum. It is comprised of four strands: Morality & Spirituality, Equality & Justice, Belief systems, Ethics & the environment.

Denominational instruction will be facilitated by the school insofar as groups will be permitted to use the school premises. This is organised by parents outside of school hours.

The Code of Behaviour recognises and endeavours to adopt the values that are set out in the ethos of the school. It attempts to support and sustain a harmonious environment in which potential is nurtured through the co-operation between staff, pupils, parents, board members and all other relevant parties.

Aims
-------------

The aim of this policy is

- To ensure an educational environment that is guided by our vision statement
- To allow the school to function in an orderly way where children can make progress in all aspects of their development
- To create an atmosphere of respect, tolerance and consideration for others
- To promote positive behaviour and self-discipline, recognising the differences between children and the need to accommodate these differences
- To ensure the safety and well-being of all members of the school community
- To assist parents and pupils in understanding the systems and procedures that form part of the code of behaviour and to seek their co-operation in the application of these procedures
- To ensure that the system of rules, rewards, and sanctions are implemented in a fair and consistent manner throughout the school
- To create a positive learning environment that encourages and reinforces good behaviour
- To produce responsible students that will learn from the environment that they see around them

Format of policy – specific areas

This policy is laid out as follows:

1. Guidelines for behaviour in the school
2. Whole school approach in promoting positive behaviour
3. Positive strategies for managing behaviour
4. Rewards and sanctions
5. Suspension / Expulsion procedures
6. Keeping records
7. Procedures for notification of pupil absences from school
8. Reference to other policies

1. GUIDELINES FOR BEHAVIOUR IN THE SCHOOL

The Education Welfare Act, Section 23, states that the code of behaviour shall specify “the standards of behaviour that shall be observed by each student attending the school”.

- The standards of behaviour that the school wishes to promote/expects from the pupils are as follows:
  - Each pupil is expected to be well-behaved and to show consideration for other children and adults
  - Each pupil is expected to show respect for the property of the school, other children’s and their own belongings
  - Each pupil is expected to attend school on a regular basis and to be punctual
  - Each pupil is expected to do his/her best both in school and for homework.
- Carrigaline Educate Together N.S. recognises that there exist factors influencing children’s behaviour that may need to be considered and accommodated. The school will endeavour to do this in a discrete manner in which each child’s potential for good behaviour is emphasised.

Section 23 (4) of the Act further states that, prior to registering a pupil, the principal teacher shall provide the parents of the child with a copy of the school’s code of behaviour and that the principal ‘may, as a condition of so registering such child, require his or her parents to confirm in writing that the code of behaviour so provided is acceptable to them and that they shall make all reasonable efforts to ensure compliance with such code by the child’.

2. WHOLE SCHOOL APPROACH IN PROMOTING POSITIVE BEHAVIOUR

A whole school approach to promotion of positive behaviour is of vital importance in CETNS.

‘A positive school ethos is based on the quality of relationships between teachers and the ways in which pupils and teachers treat each other. This positive ethos permeates all the activities of the school and helps in forming a strong sense of social cohesion within the school’ (Circular 20/90).

Staff

In our school, we treat all children with respect and dignity. There is a strong sense of community and cooperation among staff, pupils and parents and all are agreed that their focus is primarily on the promotion and recognition of positive behaviour ... ‘It is important that the policy is accepted by all staff.’ (Circular 20/90).

- All staff are aware of and agree to promote the ethos of the school, as well as implementing the Code of Behaviour in line with the ethos.
- This approach is maintained and improved from year to year. Issues or proposed amendments are addressed at staff meetings. New staff are made aware of, and involved in supporting the approach, through reading of the policy and at staff meetings also.
- All staff are consulted on and aware of this code of behaviour. The code of behaviour is communicated to new and temporary staff by being made available to them via a hard copy (kept in the Policies Folder) located in the office and via a soft copy on a USB key which is available from the office also. Each teacher is required to familiarise themselves with this document.
- The code of behaviour caters for all children, including those who may present behavioural difficulties arising from their special educational needs. Specific strategies are used to cater for these children e.g. an Individual Education Profile with behavioural targets, visual prompts or pictures; practise observing the rules, with feedback on their progress.

The school’s SPHE curriculum, as well as the Learn Together Curriculum, is used to support the Code of Behaviour. It aims to help our children develop communication skills, appropriate ways of interacting and behaving, and conflict resolution skills. It also aims to foster self-esteem and to help children accommodate differences and develop citizenship.

- These curricula are managed and monitored through regular review of the relevant plans at staff meetings and policies at policy committee meetings. The policy committee will encourage regular reviews and promote the ethos and implementation of the policies amongst other staff members.
- New teachers are informed and supported by having open access to the plans and policies. Also the school promotes a sense of openness and inclusion amongst staff members and new teachers are encouraged to approach longer-serving staff members for support and guidance on these topics.
- There are many activities scheduled by staff to develop the skills of the Code/SPHE and Learn Together Curriculum in children e.g. Circle Time, positive comments box etc.

Board of Management

‘The Board of Management has a role to play in the maintenance of desirable standards of behaviour in a school. ‘It should be supportive of the Principal Teacher in the application of a fair code of behaviour and discipline within the school' (Circular 20/90). The following outlines the Board's role in relation to Carrigaline Educate Together:

- The Board of Management is consulted in reviewing of the code of behaviour. It is circulated to the Board for review. Comments are encouraged and welcomed. Appropriate amendments are agreed upon and made prior to ratification by the Board.
- The Board of Management supports the code of behaviour in the school on an ongoing basis. The Board organises regular auditing and reviewing of the Code of Behaviour.
- The Board of Management supports the staff in implementing the code of behaviour e.g. supporting the provision of opportunities for staff development.
- The Board of Management deals with serious breaches of behaviour through the procedures in place.
- The Board has particular responsibility for the ethos of the school, as well as having overall responsibility for school policies. The Board should play an active role in exploring the kinds of relationships and behaviours that will reflect the school's ethos and responsibilities. (NEWB. - Developing a Code of Behaviour: Guidelines for Schools)
- The Board should make sure that all the members of the school community have the opportunity to be involved in work on the code of behaviour. (NEWB. - Developing a Code of Behaviour: Guidelines for Schools)

Parents

'Evidence [indicates] that schools which succeed in achieving and maintaining high standards of behaviour and discipline tend to be those with the best relationships with parents.'

'Schools need the support of parents in order to meet legitimate expectations with regard to good behaviour and discipline.' (Circular 20/90).

- Co-operation between staff and parents is encouraged. Joint work between parents and staff in the development of the code of behaviour is hoped to:
  - a) give parents insight into what teachers need in order to be able to teach effectively
  - b) equip parents to reinforce at home the messages about learning and behaviour that are conducive to a happy school
  - c) help parents and staff to have a strong sense of pride in the school and ownership of its work
  - d) help to ensure that parents and staff give consistent messages to students about how to treat others.
- Parents have been directly involved in the formation of this policy and its audit, review and implementation e.g. through the representative committee including members of the board of management, parents and teaching staff to review the code of behaviour.
- Parents of newly enrolled children are informed about the Code and their part in supporting it by providing them with a copy of the Code of Behaviour on acceptance of enrolment. Junior Infant parents are reminded of the main points of the policy at the induction meeting.
- Parents support the school in the promotion of positive behaviour and the maintenance of high standards of behaviour through the following ways:
  - Parents are aware of and cooperate with the school's system of rewards and sanctions
  - Parents ensure their children are at school on time
  - Parents attend meetings at the school if requested
  - Parents help their children with homework and ensure that it is completed
  - Parents ensure their children have the necessary books and materials for school.

Pupils

- Pupils play a fundamental role in the ongoing implementation of the code of behaviour through a variety of methods including:
  - Drafting rules for the classroom / Class Contracts
  - Buddy systems
- Pupils are given opportunities to monitor and review the Code of Behaviour through in-class discussion and review of the systems in use at a given time.

3. POSITIVE STRATEGIES FOR MANAGING BEHAVIOUR

‘The most effective methodology that teachers develop in attempting to manage challenging behaviour is to prevent it occurring in the first place’. (Managing Challenging Behaviour, Guidelines for teachers INTO 2004: 5).

The following positive strategies are used throughout the school to promote good behaviour and to prevent misbehaviour. It is addressed in relation to the classroom setting, the playground and the general school environs.

Classroom

The following positive strategies are used by staff to effectively manage behaviour in the classroom:

- Class Contract i.e. behavioural expectations in each class that are consistent with the ethos as expressed in the code of behaviour and which set a positive atmosphere for learning
- Pupil in-discussion about the class rules and encouraged to focus on the positive/good behaviour through the medium of entitlements and responsibilities e.g. ‘At school, other people respect my property.’ ‘At school I respect other people’s property.’
- Teachers ensure that pupils understand and are frequently reminded of how they are expected to behave
- Teachers model the behaviours encouraged in the Class Contract and the Code of Behaviour in an effort to Lead By Example
  - Teachers are encouraged to use aspects of the Incredible Years programme to encourage positive behaviour <http://www.incredibleyears.com/>
  - Implementation of a clear system of acknowledging and rewarding good behaviour and sanctions for misbehaviour.
- Classroom management techniques that ensure a variety of activities and methodologies to sustain pupil interest and motivation
- Timetabling SPHE and Ethical Curriculum as set out in the Curricular Guidelines, as well as through allocating some discrete time to it

Playground

The following positive strategies are implemented by staff to promote good behaviour, to prevent behavioural difficulties and to deal with incidences of unacceptable behaviour:

- Playground rules emphasise positive behaviour and make it clear what activities are permitted. Staff are made aware of new issues at staff meetings / as they arise. Children are made aware of changes through their class teacher. Pupils are involved in the creation of these rules through discussion with their class teacher, whose responsibility it is to communicate these opinions at a staff meeting
- Arrangements for supervision in the playground are done on a rota basis. SNAs are in the yard (dry day) / in the classroom (wet day) during lunchtime also. Their breaks are scheduled for different times of the day
- If there is a need to supervise more closely the behaviour of certain age groups, certain areas of the playground, certain individual pupils, this is organised at staff meetings or through email. All staff, including SNAs, are made aware of the new conditions. All children at play should be visible at all times
- All attempts are made to organise activities in ways that will minimise misbehaviour and encourage positive behaviour
- Teaching playground games to children may be a consideration, adapted to suit different class

levels

- There are three playground areas for specific ages groups
- The role of the SNA and ancillary staff in relation to the playground requires that they engage in supervising the children with special needs, ensuring that they are engaging in activities that promote positive behaviour. SNAs may also organise and supervise activities, such as playground games, with these children. These activities may include other children also. In doing this, they will remain visible to the break-/lunch- time supervisor
- Arrangements for wet days: On wet days, children will remain in their own classrooms for break-time under the supervision of the teacher on duty. If circumstances allow, suitable games i.e. board games, jigsaws etc. will be provided
- Children are led to and from the playground by their class teacher
- Children who leave the playground to use the toilets must ask the permission of the teacher on duty prior to going. Younger children are encouraged to go in pairs for safety. Children who remain inside due to illness are supervised in a designated area within the view of the teacher on duty near the toilet area downstairs
- In the event of incidents of misbehaviour, children may be asked to time-out. The incident may be reported to the class teacher. In relation to incidences of serious misbehaviour, this is noted on an incident report form. This may result in removal from the area, the withdrawal of privileges and/or notification of parents/guardians

Other areas in the school

- Positive strategies are used by staff to implement and to prevent behavioural problems in corridors, halls, toilets etc. e.g. praising good behaviour, providing an appropriate reward, notifying the child's teacher of good behaviour etc.
- Rules/expectations are formulated with the help of the children and any staff issues are communicated to the children by their class teacher. Children are regularly reminded of these, particularly at the start of the year and at the start of subsequent terms
- All staff can contribute to promotion of positive behaviour around the school through encouraging, acknowledging and rewarding good behaviour when it is encountered

Rewards and acknowledgement of good behaviour

- The emphasis is on rewards to reinforce good behaviour, rather than on failures. It is regarded in CETNS that rewards have a motivational role, helping children to see that good behaviour is valued.
- The most common reward is praise, informal and formal, public and private, to individuals and groups. It is earned by the maintenance of good standards as well as by particularly noteworthy achievements. This is as true for adults as for children. Rates of praise for behaviour should be as high as for work.
- Good behaviour is publicly recognised and acknowledged in the school by all staff through praise. Incidences of exceptional good behaviour are brought to the attention of the principal for acknowledgement and praise.
- Rewards may vary from class to class, depending on the age and maturity of the children. These may include stickers, stamps, certificates, prizes, no homework, reward activities e.g. extra computer time.
- ‘Good news’ is communicated to parents verbally, through notes and certificates. Likewise, it is communicated to staff and the principal.
- Rewards for students with special needs should take account of their particular learning style. In the case of students with a sensory disability, the reward should be communicated in ways that take account of that. For all students, and especially those with learning difficulties, reward will have an impact when it is closely linked in time to the behaviour that is being rewarded.

Strategies for dealing with unacceptable behaviour

The Education (Welfare) Act 2000, Section 23, states that a school must outline ‘the measures that may be taken if a student fails to observe the standards of behaviour that the school has outlined’.

- The degree of misdemeanours i.e. minor, serious or gross, will be judged by the teachers and/or Principal based on a common sense approach with regard to the gravity/frequency of such misdemeanours.
- Examples of minor misdemeanours include: homework undone, pushing, teasing etc. (This is not an exhaustive list)
- Examples of serious misdemeanours include: persistent bullying behaviour, vandalism of school property etc. (This is not an exhaustive list)
- Examples of gross misdemeanours include: serious threat of violence against another student or member of staff, actual violence or assault, supplying or using illegal drugs etc. (This is not an exhaustive list)
- The purpose of a sanction is to bring about a change in behaviour by:
  1. helping students to learn that their behaviour is unacceptable
  2. helping them to recognise the effect of their actions and behaviour on others
  3. helping students (in ways appropriate to their age and development) to understand that they have choices about their own behaviour and that all choices have consequences.
  4. helping them to learn to take responsibility for their behaviour.(NEWB. - Developing a Code of Behaviour: Guidelines for Schools)
- A sanction should be used in a respectful way that helps students to understand the consequences of their behaviour and to take responsibility for changing that behaviour. In particular, a sanction should:

1. defuse and not escalate a situation
2. preserve the dignity of all the parties
3. be applied in a fair and consistent way
4. be timely.

(NEWB. - Developing a Code of Behaviour: Guidelines for Schools)

- The following menu of strategies may be useful in response to incidents of unacceptable behaviour. It would be essential that staff discuss what each of these mean for their school context and when and how they may be applied: (Circular 20/90)
  - (a) Reasoning with the pupil
  - (b) Reprimand (including advice on how to improve)
  - (c) Temporary separation from peers, friends or others
  - (d) Loss of privileges
  - (e) Detention during a break
  - (f) Prescribing additional work
  - (g) Referral to Principal Teacher
  - (h) Communication with parents
  - (i) Suspension (See Section 5 on Suspension)
  - (j) Expulsion (See Section 5 on Expulsion)

- Sanctions will be applied in the following sequence:
  - 1) Reasoning with the pupil/s including advice on how to behave/improve.
  - 2) Oral reprimand which may be followed by sanctions such as:
    - Alternative or extra work
    - Temporary removal/separation from friends/peers
    - Detention during playtime
  - 3) In the case of continuous misbehaviour or in the case of a single incident of a serious nature, the following action/s may be taken:
    - Referral to the Principal
    - Contact with parents/guardians (verbal and/or in writing)
    - Child placed on report/ report is kept on the pupil's progress throughout the school day. The report is filled in three times during the day by the class teacher in consultation with the pupil. Parents read and sign the report daily and comment appropriately. Pupils will not be placed on report without the agreement and cooperation of parents. Where a single incident is deemed to be of a very serious nature, where a pupil is persistently in breach of the code of discipline and the above procedures have been followed, the case may, at the discretion of the Principal, be referred to the Board of Management.

Involving parents in management of problem behaviour

‘Parents should be kept fully informed from the outset of instances of serious misbehaviour on the part of their children. It is better to involve parents at an early stage than as a last resort.’ (Circular 20/90).

- Parents are encouraged from the time of registration onwards to share information about anything that might affect a student’s behaviour in school.

- In return, parents are approached in person, by phone or in writing if a teacher/principal recognises areas of concern in a child's behaviour.
- Early warning systems alert parents to concerns about a student's behaviour, so that ways of helping the student can be discussed and agreed.
- When parents are invited to the school, every effort is made to put them at their ease in order to maximise a co-operative approach. Care and consideration is taken to ensure the language and tone of the invitation, the format for the meeting and the meeting room are appropriate. Those present at the meeting with the parents may include principal and the teacher involved. The child may be present for part of or all of the meeting.
- Parents are always encouraged to contact the school if they have concerns. Parents may approach a teacher informally or to request a formal meeting. Following this, parents may arrange a formal meeting with the Principal. Parents may also communicate in writing to the teacher/Principal/Board of Management.
- Information is offered through the Parent Association, such as talks or workshops, on behavioural matters and aspects of child development.
- If there is a risk of a child causing harm to themselves or others, parents may be asked to complete a form giving permission for safe removal of the child; which could entail physically restraining and removal of the child from that situation/environment.

Managing aggressive or violent misbehaviour

- Strategies used for dealing with serious emotional and behavioural problems:
  - Children who are emotionally disturbed are referred for psychological assessment.
  - When concerns are raised and throughout the child's schooling, the assistance of the Special Educational Needs Organiser is sought. Appropriate support is also sought from services available such as the Health Service Executive, NEPS etc.
- Specific strategies are used in the school:
  - A care team is made up of all relevant school staff for an individual child. It may include class teacher, Resource Teacher (RT), Learning Support Teacher (LST), SNAs, Principal etc. Meetings are held to discuss the promotion of an individual's positive behaviour and minimise/eradicate their negative behaviour.
  - If necessary, external SEN personnel may be invited to provide their professional opinion/advice.
  - Professional development in this area is encouraged amongst all staff e.g. SESS, Colleges of Education, ICEP (ProfExcel) courses, Education Centres etc.
  - In the event of seriously violent or threatening behaviour causing a risk to the safety of the pupil himself/herself or the safety of other pupils or staff, the school will contact the parents immediately, unless permission has already been granted. In this case the child will be safely removed from that situation/environment. The school may request temporary exclusion while consultation with SENO and/or EWO takes place about appropriate resourcing, facilities etc.

5. SUSPENSION / EXPULSION PROCEDURES

The Education Welfare Act, 2000, stipulates that a code of behaviour shall specify... ‘the procedures to be followed before a student may be suspended or expelled from the school concerned’ and “the grounds for removing a suspension imposed in relation to a student.”(Sections 23(2) c, d)

Schools are required by law to follow fair procedures when proposing to suspend or expel a student. The requirement for fair procedures derives from the Constitution of Ireland, international Conventions and case law. Fair procedures have two essential parts:

- the right to be heard
- the right to impartiality

Suspension

The Principal shall inform the Education Welfare Officer, by notice in writing, when a student is suspended from a recognised school for a period of not less than 6 days. (Sections 21(4) a )

Circular 20/90 states that ‘Parents should be informed of their right to come to the school and be invited to do so in order to discuss the misbehaviour with the Principal Teacher and/or the class teacher. This should always be done when the suspension of a pupil is being contemplated’.

Suspension should be a proportionate response to the behaviour that is causing concern.
(NEWB. - Developing a Code of Behaviour: Guidelines for Schools)

The school follows the guidelines set out in ‘Developing a Code of Behaviour: Guidelines for Schools’ as set out by NEWB in relation to suspension and expulsion

- The decision to suspend a student requires serious grounds such as that:
  - the student’s behaviour has had a seriously detrimental effect on the education of other students
  - the student’s continued presence in the school at this time constitutes a threat to safety
  - the student is responsible for serious damage to property.
  - A single incident of serious misconduct may be grounds for suspension.
- Factors to be considered prior to suspension are set out on page 72 of NEWB’s ‘Developing a Code Behaviour: Guidelines for Schools’. Please find a copy of this attached to the document.
- Suspension should:
  - enable the school to set behavioural goals with the student and their parents

- give school staff an opportunity to plan other interventions
- impress on a student and their parents the seriousness of the behaviour.
- Forms of suspension:
  - Immediate suspension - In exceptional circumstances, the Principal may consider an immediate suspension to be necessary where the continued presence of the student in the school at the time would represent a serious threat to the safety of students or staff of the school, or any other person. Fair procedures must still be applied.
  - 'Automatic' suspension - A Board of Management may decide, as part of the school's policy on sanctions, and following the consultation process with the Principal, parents, teachers and students, that particular named behaviours incur suspension as a sanction. However, a general decision to impose suspension for named behaviours does not remove the duty to follow due process and fair procedures in each case.
  - Rolling suspension - A student should not be suspended again shortly after they return to school unless:
    - they engage in serious misbehaviour that warrants suspension and
    - fair procedures are observed in full and
    - the standard applied to judging the behaviour is the same as the standard applied to the behaviour of any other student.
  - Informal or Unacknowledged suspension - Exclusion of a student for part of the school day, as a sanction, or asking parents to keep a child from school, as a sanction, is a suspension. Any exclusion imposed by the school is a suspension, and should follow the Guidelines relating to suspension.
  - Open-ended suspension - Students should not be suspended for an indefinite period. Any such suspension would be regarded as a de-facto expulsion and would be treated as such under section 29 of the Education Act 1998.
- Schools are required by law to follow fair procedures when proposing to suspend a student. Where a preliminary assessment of the facts confirms serious misbehaviour that could warrant suspension, the school should observe the following procedures:
  - inform the student and their parents about the complaint
  - give parents and student an opportunity to respond.
- Procedures in relation to immediate suspension:

Where an immediate suspension is considered by the Principal to be warranted for reasons of the safety of the student, other students, staff or others, a preliminary investigation should be conducted to establish the case for the imposition of the suspension. The formal investigation should immediately follow the imposition of the suspension. All of the conditions for suspension apply to immediate suspension. No suspension, including an immediate suspension, should be open-ended.

In the case of an immediate suspension, parents must be notified, and arrangements made with them for the student to be collected. The school must have regard to its duty of care for the student. Under no circumstances should a student be sent home from school without first notifying parents
- The period of suspension:

A student should not be suspended for more than three days, except in exceptional circumstances where the Principal considers that a period of suspension longer than three days is needed in order to achieve a particular objective. The Board of Management provides guidance to the Principal concerning the kinds of circumstances under which suspensions of longer than three days might be approved.

If a suspension longer than three days is being proposed by the Principal, the matter should be referred to the Board of Management for consideration and approval, giving the circumstances and the expected outcomes.

However, the Board of Management authorises the Principal, with the approval of the Chairperson of the Board, to impose a suspension of up to five days in circumstances where a meeting of the Board cannot be convened in a timely fashion, subject to the guidance concerning such suspensions.

The Board of Management places a ceiling of ten days on any one period of suspension imposed by it. The Board should formally review any proposal to suspend a student, where the suspension would bring the number of days for which the student has been suspended in the current school year to twenty days or more. Any such suspension is subject to appeal under section 29 of the Education Act 1998.

These provisions enable school authorities to give the student a reasonable time to reflect on their behaviour while avoiding undue loss of teaching time and loss of contact with the positive influences of school. They recognise the serious nature of the sanction of suspension and ensure that this seriousness is reflected in school procedures. The provisions mean that the Board of Management takes ultimate responsibility for sanctions of significant length, especially where such suspensions might reach twenty days in one school year and therefore might lead to an appeal.

- Where a student has been suspended for a cumulative total of six or more days, the National Education Welfare Board will be notified using the standard form.
- Written notification
The Principal should notify the parents and the student in writing of the decision to suspend. The letter should confirm:
  - the period of the suspension and the dates on which the suspension will begin and end
  - the reasons for the suspension
  - any study programme to be followed
  - the arrangements for returning to school, including any commitments to be entered into by the student and the parents (for example, parents might be asked to reaffirm their commitment to the code of behaviour)
  - the provision for an appeal to the Board of Management
  - the right to appeal to the Secretary General of the Department of Education and Science (Education Act 1998, section 29).The letter should be clear and easy to understand. Particular care should be taken in communicating with parents who may have reading difficulties, or whose first language is not the language of the school.
- The Principal or another staff member delegated by the Principal meets with the parents to emphasise their responsibility in helping the student to behave well when the student returns to school and to offer help and guidance in this. Where parents do not agree to meet with the Principal, written notification will serve as notice to impose a suspension.
- A suspension may be removed if the Board of Management decides to remove the suspension for any reason or if the Secretary General of the Department of Education and Science directs that it be removed following an appeal under section 29 of the Education Act 1998.

- A period of suspension will end on the date given in the letter of notification to the parents about the suspension. All efforts will be made to re-integrate the child successfully. The child is given the opportunity and support for a fresh start / clean slate.

Expulsion (permanent exclusion)

Under the Education Welfare Act, 2000, ‘A student shall not be expelled from a school before the passing of twenty school days following the receipt of a notification under this section by an educational welfare officer’ (Section 24(4)) It is the right of a Board of Management to take ‘... such other reasonable measures as it considers appropriate to ensure that good order and discipline are maintained in the school concerned and that the safety of students is secured.’ (Section 24(5))

Expulsion should be a proportionate response to the student’s behaviour.

(NEWB. - Developing a Code of Behaviour: Guidelines for Schools)

- Expulsion of a student is a very serious step, and one that should only be taken by the Board of Management in extreme cases of unacceptable behaviour. The school should have taken significant steps to address the misbehaviour and to avoid expulsion of a student including, as appropriate:
  - meeting with parents and the student to try to find ways of helping the student to change their behaviour
  - making sure that the student understands the possible consequences of their behaviour, if it should persist
  - ensuring that all other possible options have been tried
  - seeking the assistance of support agencies (e.g. National Educational Psychological Service, Health Service Executive Community Services, the National Behavioural Support Service, Child and Adolescent Mental Health Services, National Council for Special Education).
- A proposal to expel a student requires serious grounds such as that:
  - the student’s behaviour is a persistent cause of significant disruption to the learning of others or to the teaching process
  - the student’s continued presence in the school constitutes a real and significant threat to safety
  - the student is responsible for serious damage to property.
- Forms of expulsion:
  - ‘Automatic’ expulsion – The Board of Management may decide, as part of the school’s policy on sanctions, and following the consultation process with the Principal, parents, teachers and students, that particular named behaviours incur expulsion as a sanction. However, a general decision to impose expulsion for named behaviours does not remove the duty to follow due process and fair procedures.
  - Expulsion for a first offence - There may be exceptional circumstances where the Board of Management forms the opinion that a student should be expelled for a first offence. The kinds of behaviour that might result in a proposal to expel on the basis of a single breach of the code could include:
    - a serious threat of violence against another student or member of staff
    - actual violence or physical assault
    - supplying illegal drugs to other students in the school
- Factors to be considered prior to expulsion are set out on page 82 of NEWB’s ‘Developing a Code Behaviour: Guidelines for Schools’. Please find a copy of this attached to the document.

- Schools are required by law to follow fair procedures as well as procedures prescribed under the Education (Welfare) Act 2000, when proposing to expel a student. Where a preliminary assessment of the facts confirms serious misbehaviour that could warrant expulsion, the procedural steps will include:
  1. A detailed investigation carried out under the direction of the Principal.
  2. A recommendation to the Board of Management by the Principal.
  3. Consideration by the Board of Management of the Principal's recommendation; and the holding of a hearing.
  4. Board of Management deliberations and actions following the hearing.
  5. Consultations arranged by the Educational Welfare Officer.
  6. Confirmation of the decision to expel.

Appeals

Under Section 29 of the Education Act, 1998, parents (or pupils who have reached the age of 18) are entitled to appeal to the Secretary General of the Department of Education and Science against some decisions of the Board of Management, including (1) permanent exclusion from a school and (2) suspension for a period which would bring the cumulative period of suspension to 20 school days or longer in any one school year. Accordingly, the school will advise parents of this right of appeal and the associated timeframe if it has been decided to suspend or permanently exclude a pupil. Appeals must generally be made within 42 calendar days from the date the decision of the school was notified to the parent or student. (See Circular 22/02)

- Parents/guardians are informed in writing by the Chairman of the BOM of their entitlement to appeal a decision of the Board of Management in relation to suspension or expulsion following the decision being made
- The Chairman of the BOM and the Principal will prepare a response if and when an appeal is being investigated by the Dept of Education and Science (Section 12, Circular 22/02 – Processing of an Appeal)

6. KEEPING RECORDS

A standardised record system will allow the school to track an individual student's behaviour and to check whether efforts to change behaviour are working. (See policy safeguarding students/safeguarding staff). All interventions aimed at helping the student to deal with serious and gross misbehaviour should also be recorded, including contact with parents or referral to other agencies. Positive responses by a student, and evidence of changed behaviour, should be recorded, as should any sanction used, together with the reason why the sanction was imposed. Students should be told when a record is being made about their behaviour, and the reasons for keeping a record.

Records should be kept in accordance with the Data Protection Act 1988 and the Data Protection (Amendment) Act 2003. The eight rules of data protection apply to personal records kept in school:

1. Obtain and process information fairly.
2. Keep it only for one or more specified, explicit and lawful purposes.
3. Use and disclose it only in ways compatible with these purposes.
4. Keep it safe and secure.
5. Keep it accurate, complete and up-to-date.
6. Ensure it is adequate, relevant and not excessive.
7. Retain it for no longer than is necessary for the purpose or purposes.
8. Give a copy of their personal data to an individual on request.

Class level.

- Every teacher is expected to maintain up-to-date records of a child's behaviour. Records are kept in the teacher's 'incidents book'.
- Serious misbehaviour is reported to the principal as soon as possible.
- The end of year report includes a reference to behaviour. There is a reasonably consistent understanding of what constitutes excellent – poor behaviour among the staff.
- Parents should be kept up to date during the year regarding behaviour issues.

Playground

- Supervising staff keep a record of misbehaviour in the school's 'yard book'. There are three yard books – one each for junior yard, middle yard, senior yard and toilet area. These are stored in the staff room. Class teachers and the principal are informed verbally. Class teachers may choose to record the incident again themselves in their own 'meetings and incidents book'.
- In an effort to encourage consistency in the application and interpretation of the rules, students will be reminded of the rules in class.

School records

- Factual reports of particular incidents; communication between school and home, with outside agencies, Board of Management; etc. will all be kept by the schools.
- Documentation pertaining to appeals under Section 29 will be kept.
- Copies of the children's school reports, psychological reports, occupational therapy reports etc. will all be stored in the child's file.

7. PROCEDURES FOR NOTIFICATION OF PUPIL ABSENCES FROM SCHOOL

The Education Welfare Act, 2000, Section 23 (2)(e) states that the code of behaviour must specify, “the procedures to be followed in relation to a child’s absence from school.” Section 18 stipulates that parents must notify the school of a student’s absence and the reason for this absence.

The following strategies that are used to encourage school attendance e.g.

- Creating a stimulating and attractive school environment
  - System for acknowledging/rewarding good or improved attendance
  - Adapting curriculum content and methodologies to maximise relevance to pupils
  - Adapting the class and school timetables to make it more attractive to attend and to be on time
  - Making parents aware of the terms of the Education Welfare Act and its implications.
  - It is of great importance that parents let the school know of their child’s absence for any reason
- The school should be informed when the student returns to school, except in cases of a planned prolonged absence where parents should inform the school prior to the absence
  - Parents should inform the class teacher of the absence
  - Parents should inform the school in writing insofar as is possible
  - Parents/guardians should send in a note informing teachers of their child’s absence from school and the reason for this absence. These notes should be signed and dated. These notes should be kept for the duration of the school year.
  - The school may contact parents informally by phone in the case of an extended absence. The school will notify parents/guardians in writing when absences of child aged 6 or over, amount to more than 15 days.
  - The school is legally obliged to inform the National Education Welfare Board in the event of a total number of days absent amount to 20 days or more. The school uses the standard forms to report on pupil absences to the National Education Welfare Board.
